

Beauty Snob

TOKI porcelain skin from within

First off... let me just say WOW! Toki is a natural collagen drink clinically shown to reduce fine lines and age spots (collagen injections anyone?). Collagen is a protein that gives firmness and elasticity to the skin making appear young and supple, as begin to age past 30, collagen becomes more and more difficult for your body to make or store. Toki puts a large dose of collagen right back into your body and skin with three glasses a day! I tried the powder that you mix into your drinks, and found that 1) it's hard to have 3 glasses a day, every day because you can't always be home to make it or take it to go 2) there are really only a few beverages I would recommend adding this to. The powder has a tart lemony flavor that goes good in one thing -Lemonade. Also, it doesn't dissolve in cold liquid, so I would mix it into a few teaspoons of hot water (letting it dissolve) and then adding it to your lemonade... Or just get it in the tablet form =) Anyways, I really REALLY really enjoyed this. And am placing an order for my mother ASAP! Had I thought ahead I would have taken before and after pictures, but now you will just have to take my word for it!- And the word is GREAT!

Toki is available in several health food stores across the US, and you can also order from their website. $150 for a 30 day supply.

Read other entries in: Skin

Posted by Anne on July 25, 2008 6:09 AM | Permalink